PEONIES AND IRISES

A LIST OF
CHOICE AND RARE
VARIETIES
WITH PRICES

Clarence W. Hubbard
GROWER OF
PEONIES & IRISES

6144 LAKEWOOD AVENUE
CHICAGO, ILL.

IN response to your request, we send you this price list. Though a simple list, free from description, we know of no grower with a standard as high who issues a list as comprehensive. It has been our effort to eliminate kinds which for various reasons are not dependable, retaining only those varieties as are most reliable, cover an extended blooming season and the several types and shades.

We are moving our entire planting, this fall to a larger property. It was not our intention to issue this list until after fall planting, as we desired to have same incorporate the observations and studies now being made. The many requests we have received for a catalogue have made it appear advisable to issue this price list, which we ask you to consider an emergency edition.

PRICES quoted are strictly net, cash with order, payable by post office, express money order or bank draft on Chicago, with exchange added. Prices are for stock packed f. o. b. Chicago, i. e., purchaser pays transportation. We make no charge for packing except on orders under $2.00. A dozen roots of one variety will be furnished at ten times the single price. Six or more of one variety at dozen rate.

GUARANTEE—Our plants are grown under a modern overhead system of irrigation, this rendering us independent of dry seasons and insuring a full seasons healthy growth per season. Having no control of plants after leaving our hands, we can not assume responsibility for unfavorable results due to weather, soil, improper planting, culture or neglect. We stand ready to cheerfully replace any plant blooming untrue to our label.

Culture

Peonies and Irises are not particular as to soil but if inclined to be acid, a light dressing of lime is very desirable. None but old, entirely decomposed manure should ever be permitted to come into contact with the root; use bone meal in the fall and sheep manure in the spring and be safe. A well drained situation is essential and while they do well in partial shade, we prefer a location open to full sun light, away from trees, hedges and large shrubs the shade and roots from which will handicap best results.

Peonies should be planted three feet or more apart and the root so set so as to have the top eye not over three inches deep in heavy soil or four inches in light soil. Deeper planting will cause shy blooming.

We recommend planting in September and October, though planting may be done up to the time the ground freezes. We do not consider it to the best interests of our customers and therefore ourselves, to plant peonies in the spring. Hence we store no roots for spring shipment.

After planting and the ground has frozen, a mulch or covering is quite desirable—not for protection against cold as they are perfectly hardy—but to prevent the frost heaving the roots out of the ground in the spring. We find leaves readily obtainable and admirably suited for this purpose though corn stalks or straw does equally well.

Iris should be planted shallow, just covering the root or rhizome, and we do not consider it advisable to interplant with other plants.

Keep the plants cultivated and water is desirable when buds are forming.

Do not use fresh manure.

Do not plant in a wet location.

WE ARE frequently asked to recommend varieties. In anticipation of this request, we list below varieties of peonies and irises which we recommend without reserve or hesitation. Same are selected from the standard, popular priced sorts and are indispensable in any collection.

The list has an added interest and value, in that varieties are grouped according to general color effect and listed in the respective groups, in the order of blooming.
